MEMORIES.

Last night as I sat in the moenlight, I dreamed of you love far away; And wondered if you, too, were think-

Of me at the close of the day. I recalled the last blissful moments That we spent 'neath its beauti'ul light, To thee they are passed and forgotten, But I'll always remember that night. And now we are drifting-drifting, Down through the stream of life;

Never again will our ways cross, 'Til the ending of the strife. But I'd have you know my darling That I have been faithful and true;

Never forgetting the promise That I would always love you. Alas, how soon you have blighted A life that was happy and bright, When you went away dearest, And left me on that sad and beautiful night. Whenever I see its beautiful beams, My heart is filled with a longing That comes to me oft in my dreams To behold once again that dear
